quality time

Family affaire

As a child I didn't care too much for my parents' florist shop, and I was sure I would never follow in their footsteps. It was always work, work, work, 6/7 days in the week and, to my mind, not enough time spent as a family. Which is why I could never wait for our (summer) holidays. Even though we weren't well off, we got away with all the family for two or three weeks, when we spent plenty of time together. Usually, my mum, sister and little Henk went on ahead, with Dad joining us a week later with the car; he didn't like being away from the business for too long. The family Teunissen's favourite destination was the Lago di Garda, or Lake Garda, in Northern Italy. We stayed in a few places on the shores of the lake, from Riva to Garda, and I still know the best spots (and the tastiest ice cream parlours).

Around 10 years ago we returned as a family, and actually not much had changed in 40 years. I have so many Happy Memories from those holidays with my mum and dad and sister. We often stayed in the kind of simple, small family hotel where everyone — young and old alike — helped run the family concern; mum, dad, sometimes even a brother or grandmother and grandfather, and the children too, as it was all hands on deck in the summer. All meals were included, with lunch and dinner served at set times. Each customer/family had their own table in the restaurant and just before meal-times the guests could be found waiting outside the restaurant doors. We never stayed at a camp site as my mum detested camping; if I have to crawl into a tent, I'd rather stay home, she'd always say.

What has stayed with me in particular is the family ambience of those little hotels. In no time at all you'd got to know all the manager's family, and the Italian food was delightful, of course. Extended, hot meals were served both at lunchtime and in the evening, meals that included pasta, with all the food (sometimes three courses no less) served on white table linen. Naturally, we thought it the height of luxury. Your name was put on any bottle of wine you'd ordered, which was then saved until the next meal, if you hadn't finished it before then of course. However, my parents weren't big drinkers, so the wine was imbibed sparingly.

During the summer in Northern Italy the weather can take a turn for the worse now and then, so during inclement weather we would always go on a day trip somewhere, on the lake, or to Venice or Verona. I have great memories of Verona; it is a lovely, old, compact city with at its heart the world-renowned Arena, the amphitheatre, where magnificent open-air opera performances are held in the summer time. Children find it a real experience too, although some operas can be quite long. Unsold tickets for that evening's performance could be bought at a discount at a kiosk on the square outside the Arena. I can picture it now, and opposite the Arena were countless pavement cafes where we were sometimes treated to a drink if we were thirsty or tired. Once inside the Arena, you could hire cushions to make you more comfortable on the stone seat. Only the expensive tickets at the front had proper chairs, and to my mind these looked very chic. They were always very special weeks, and going on holiday together as a family to us, to this day, is the ultimate holiday.

I have never urged my children to join the Riviera Maison business; it certainly mustn't be taken for granted; it's quite hard work but, would you believe, now all three work for our brand. Our eldest, Sjors, had time on his hands having finished his course in commercial economics, so he joined me on a week's business trip to China and was so enthused that in a restaurant high above the city of Shanghai, I offered him a job as a kind of traineeship; his ambition is to be an entrepreneur. He has been with us for over a year now, first in procurement and now as a manager in the E-commerce department that handles the web shop.

Our middle child, Puck, has kind of become the Riviera Maison mascot. Every Monday and Wednesday she helps with catering, in particular ensuring a tidy kitchen and pantry; boy are you in trouble if you leave it in a mess, when Puck takes you to task. Puck has a learning disability but is highly skilled socially and has the gift of the gab. She is very sociable, wants to know everything and has half the company on Facebook; for all the latest titbits, just ask Puck.

Our youngest, Bess, has just successfully completed an interior design course at the HMC in Amsterdam, and is about to start a creative Higher Professional Education course at the Artemis in Amsterdam. She thinks she wants to be an interior designer, if so, the apple doesn't fall far from the tree. In her free time she currently works in one of our shops as a sales assistant. It's just a matter of waiting to find out what happens, as who knows, maybe one of my three children will follow in Dad's footsteps.

At home, family is really important to us. We love getting together for a meal, with all the extended family and Grandma there too. That's why I thought it so special and fantastic to encounter René Bogaart from the Pavarotti restaurant chain. A first-rate entrepreneur who in no time at all established a number of successful catering businesses based on a super concept. Italian pasta dishes and pizzas at very affordable prices, but in a convivial, pleasant ambience. René and his wife Sandra have been big fans of RM for many years now, just take a look at their lovely home in RM Style on page 36 of this magazine, and we have just embarked upon a business partnership. From now on, we will do the interior design for all the Pavarotti restaurants.

What René and I have in common is being real family men, and his extended family is likewise involved in his business. They also like to all get together for enjoyable meals because hard work is great, but enjoying time with the family is what it's all about. René agrees wholeheartedly with me that besides good food, ambience and conviviality is just as important for a restaurant. Going out for a meal is a social activity, one which we like to undertake in a pleasant setting; after all, that's how you see a lot of customers coming back, time and again. Twice a year we will undertake complete restaurant make-overs by replacing all the accessories with the latest seasonal pieces from our collection, keeping everything nicely up-to-date and reflecting the seasons better.

What is striking is that more and more catering businesses also understand that ambience is vital, indeed, our B2B department that oversees project furnishing has expanded rapidly in the last two years. An increasing number of hotels and restaurants are opting for Riviera Maison. This year too will see significant growth, with a range of premises furnishing plans across Europe on the 2019 schedule already. It's great to undertake, and is hugely satisfactory in creative terms. Indeed, we're also giving our input about layout, wall and floor colour schemes, and even the formula name.

On this page you can see me standing next to our new Pacifica Shutter Cabinet; it's my favourite piece for this autumn. A beautiful, handmade range of pure Indian mahogany. We have been busy with this for more than two years. This range is made around three hours' drive from Jaipur in India, in a small workshop run, again, by a family concern comprising two brothers, their wives and both their sons. We go there at least 3 or 4 times a year, and when we are there the spouses always prepare scrumptious vegetarian dishes for us, all home-made; the food alone is worth a visit. The Pacifica is in actual fact a successor to the classic New Orleans shutter cabinet (which we will continue to make as usual) which, in our opinion, deserved a worthy successor after 15 years. I believe you must always reinvent yourself, without losing your DNA. Naturally, RM will continue to be the classic brand in Long Island/Provence style.

For the autumn we have also invested creativity into more functional, industrial pieces, and have even added a touch of stylishness, as can be seen on pages 26 and 59. To my mind the ability to keep mixing up all the styles, but to also keep creating a different ambience with individual pieces is all-important. To this end, Riviera Maison has become more complete and more accessible to a multitude of tastes.

Happy reading, and I wish you a fantastic autumn enjoying beautiful woodland walks and extended meals with family and friends.

Home is where you can be you.

STURDY & CONTEMPORARY

Rivière Maison has also embraced the industrial look with the use of old iron and steel in furniture, clean designs and robust fabrics. Robust, heavy and sturdy fabrics in dark colours: all go well with every loft-style interior.

Whether you have a big or small living area, this style creates a spacious look. A single West Houston Corner Sofa looks 'grand', even in a smallish living room. These ideal coffee and side tables don't take up much space, but are easy to place as needed.

WILLIAMSBURG

Williamsburg, the well-known artistic area of New York, was the inspiration for this robust collection. The cushions and throws are made from sturdy material, like cotton and wool for casual coolness.

Texture

The knitted cushions and plaids have gorgeous cable patterns and a plaited structure. It's obvious that much attention has been devoted to the finish, which gives this collection an especially high quality feel.

Powder Parlour Knit Pillow Cover smoke, size: 50 x 50 cm, also available in the colours ecru and blush, Harrison Cable Knit Throw dark grey, size: 170 x 130 cm, also available in the colours light grey and ecru.

Details

The Williamsburg collection is packed with details. Such as the leather bows on one cushion, and then a leather label on another. This way, a collection was created in which each item has a little extra something.

Williamsburg 48 Grand Street Pillow Cover size: 50 x 50 cm, Brentwood Boucle Throw enchanting grey, size: 170 x 130 cm, also available in the colours boston brown and precious pink.

Robust fabrics

This incredibly fine collection matches various interior styles perfectly, but also those with an eclectic style mix.

The marvellous robust fabrics blend in with every home to give your interior a sophisticated look & feel.

PERSONAL TOUCH

When selecting an interior style, furniture is often the first to spring to mind. That's entirely logical, as furniture pieces form the backdrop. But it's what comes after that proves a real ambience-enhancer: accessories. With the right accessories you can decorate your home to your heart's content, lending your interior its own unique style.

Opt for stylish cushions on the sofa, and drape a cosy throw nonchalantly over the chaise lounge. Why not also cleverly place lanterns, and position an eye-catching lamp in a prominent spot; choose beautiful photo frames with black&white prints for an artistic effect on the wall. Robust, wooden units with glass doors, such as the Hands Creek range, complete the picture perfectly.

Brompton Cross Corner Sofa Chaise Longue Left velvet, clay, available in various colours and in washed cotton, size: 45 x 40 cm, Gilford Island Hurricane large, Hands Creek Dresser, Vendôme Mirror, The Eiffel Tower Table Lamp, Brianna Stone Washed Lampshade black, size: 35 x 45 cm.

The use of several, small coffee tables lends a certain playfulness to an interior and provide plenty of opportunity to present your loveliest accessories in a creative way. Select coffee tables of varying heights for optimum impact.

INTERVIEW WITH RENÉ BOGAART:

THE MAN BEHIND RESTAURANT PAVAROTTI

Sandra and René Bogaart had two dreams when they met 25 years ago: a business in the hospitality sector, and starting a big family. With the responsibility for eleven hospitality establishments and a family of six children, we can safely say that these dreams have come true for this power couple. And as if that's not busy enough for them, the couple has 23 dogs and are about to open three more restaurants, all entirely in Riviéra Maison style!

René comes from a proper hospitality family and grew up in the business. Despite the hard work and having to give up a lot - he is always working when others are free - he enjoys it to the utmost. "If your work is your hobby, you're never actually working." However, he does try to achieve a good balance between work and family. That's pretty difficult sometimes: one time you are a better father and the next a better entrepreneur. But we always try to compensate ... then we go on a holiday so that we really have time for each other again for a while." The family also tries to have breakfast together every Sunday. "That's a fixed appointment that we always keep."

Last year the Bogaart family came to live in a magnificent country mansion in Voorburg. "We fell in love with it immediately! Despite everything being dark brown, we were completely taken by the space, the height, and its location on the water." They converted the former office into a home with 24 rooms and a complete Riviéra Maison refurbishment. "I think Riviéra Maison is the nicest sweets shop in the Netherlands! And it doesn't even make you fat."

Riviéra Maison gives René a relaxed feeling, and he wanted to bring this to his restaurant, Pavarotti. This way people not only enjoy good food, but also really enjoy a fine atmosphere." Restaurant Pavarotti in Zoetermeer is well-known for its delicious and affordable pasta and pizza, and fast but friendly service. They make their own pasta and have chosen to have a completely open kitchen. "Openness and honesty are top priority for us; we have nothing to hide."

The restaurant is such an enormous success that another three branches are already being planned. "We are going to open a really big Pavarotti in the old station of Delft, and at the end of 2018 we will be opening another branch in Leiden, on the Nieuwe Rijn. Yet another Pavarotti will be coming to the top of the boulevard in Kijkduin. Riviéra Maison is our partner regarding interiors for all three of these new branches."

Nice detail: the three oldest children are already fully involved in the family business and the three youngest can't wait to start working alongside their parents. "We don't force it on them at all, they really do love it!"

"We go 200 kph day and night, but we are very happy and grateful," says René with a broad smile. The saying that behind every strong man stands an even stronger woman is totally true according to him. "We have a whole lot of companies, but our biggest one is at home, and my wife runs it. Children, sports, coaching, the animals, cooking, ... my wife is the absolute champion in this family!"

René and Sandra have no less than 23 dogs and so there are quite a few dog beds around the house. This lovely Labradoodle sprawls majestically on his Rustic Rattan Nicolas Dog Bed!

For full product information, see pages 80-81 of this magazine.

The family house contains many large accessories and furniture pieces. They come out very nicely in the roomy house and make for a spacious yet warm feeling. The vase pictured above is a great example; it is made up of two pieces that can be placed on top of, or alongside, one another, and with the right decoration is a veritable ambience-enhancer. In the kitchen - the heart of the house - stands an enormous dining table with wonderful Keith II Lowback Armchairs that invite you to take a seat.

“I think Riviera Maison is the nicest sweets shop in the Netherlands! And it doesn’t even make you fat.”

Smile. There is wine.

Rue Mademoiselle

PARIS

Paris is the fashion capital, the city where art has free rein, and in particular where the numerous little idyllic streets spontaneously steal your heart. Within this fantastic metropolis, the street known as Rue Mademoiselle proved the source of inspiration for our chic textile collection in which wool plays the leading part. The 'chic Parisian' style can be seen back in the soft tones with an 'aged' hue, the luxurious check and refined finish. In short: a collection that transports you to the ever so beautiful Paris.

A deliciously lazy Sunday afternoon on the sofa cocooned from the blustery weather outdoors. A pretty much sure-fire recipe for enjoyment.

The autumn collection boasts many styles, from the opulent to minimalist; there's something to suit all tastes. The great thing about mixing up different styles is that the lounge is given its own identity. All you need do is place different pieces of furniture alongside one another, or simply use accessories.

A candlestick in the shape of a contemporary chandelier is hugely atmospheric. So too the combination of an oriental style rug with a modern classic standard lamp in the background. Lending lounge soul.

The ugly green duckling

Wonderful touring in a cabriolet, even in winter, which was a bit different at the beginning of my driving career; a green deux chevaux was my fate, grass looking green! With a linen roof for that feeling of driving a convertible.

When I passed a truck, the roof rose and a side window flew open! It was not exactly adapted to the current standards of safety.

There are some fun facts; it can carry up to 7 people, you can drive at 80 km p/h over a traffic island and everything you can think of fits inside of it! Fortunately, we now have a miniature version of the 2cv so that I can be reminded of that time. Of course, it is also nice and useful as a paperweight on the kitchen table or in a nice spot in the house.

With autumnal greetings,

HEER HUGO

Gewoon lekker eten & slapen

One of the bigger projects to be undertaken by Rivièra Maison this autumn is Heer Hugo in Heerhugowaard. This is a fantastic project in which Creative Director Nico Tijsen in particular is closely involved. Among other things, he has designed the name and logo that will be used throughout the business. The owners of 'Gewoon Lekker' in Zaandam and Hoorn, restaurants also furnished by Rivièra Maison, have taken over this established Hotel-Restaurant and are going to revive its allure in the same style as the other two premises.

The restaurants, lobbies, dining areas and terrace will be refurbished first, followed by the 60 hotel rooms mid next year. The three restaurants seat more than 250 in total. The largest has comfortable private dining booths, the brasserie will be furnished in a more up-market style, and the garden room will be filled with an abundance of plants, with a lovely view over the terrace.

Heer Hugo is set to open its doors towards the end of 2018. We will keep you up to date!

La Scala

A range that will add genuine warmth and a dash of the theatrical this coming winter is the magnificent La Scala Collection. Inspired by the amazing Milanese opera house, Teatro alla Scala, this superior collection evokes a delightfully theatrical ambience. Gorgeous fabrics, such as delicate velvet and faux fur are adorned with robust embroidery and elegant ribbon to emphasise this collection's opulence. The rich bordeaux-red and dark-grey colour scheme is combined with an elegant floral pattern that adds the finishing touches to this refined collection. With the beguiling La Scala Collection you add a touch of glamour to your interior.

Mountain resort

In Southern Germany, at the foot of the Wetterstein mountains, lies the genial town of Garmisch Partenkirchen, renowned for the Olympic Games that took place in 1936, and the annual Four Hills Tournament on New Year's Day. With over 460 km of pistes, this is a highly popular ski resort with Germans. This lovely winter sport environment calls out for warm, sumptuous fabrics; fluffy wool and velvet can be found back in the comfortable cushions and throws, all in wool-white, various hues of brown and matching grey. A deliciously warm collection for those cold wintry days.

The winter collection is available from mid-October 2018.
