Hello Spring

I really hate the cold and although Christmas is my favourite time of year, on 27 December I can again be longing for spring and the winter could not be over sooner.

The Netherlands is a real ice skating country. As soon as it freezes for a week, the eleven-city virus re-emerges and everyone talks about the race really happening again: the Elfstedentocht (Eleven Cities Tour). The romance around the tour of tours in our beautiful Friesland is wonderful, but I am Amsterdam born and when it freezes there is nothing more beautiful for me than the scene of skating people and their children on the canals after a few weeks of frost. That makes my heart beat faster, but then please give me the first "skirt day" in March, as the sadly untimely deceased Dutch writer Martin Bril called the early spring days when women leave their long pants in the wardrobe and once more reveal their legs under a skirt.

Oh yes, that first spring day lightens my mood so well. Towards the end of the day, I think "To the terrace!", having a nice glass of something, chatting with friends or with Saskia and the kids, having a snack, or strolling along the canal where the first folding tables have just been installed on the pavement with bottle of rosé on top, some cheese and nuts and you see them enjoying the first rays of sunshine. Waking up at seven in the morning to the light that streams in through the curtain opening instead of being rudely roused by a screaming alarm clock. Now that's true spring for me.

When from 1985, we had the flower shop in the Herenstraat in Amsterdam, we often went to Café de Vergulde Gaper on the corner of the Prinsengracht when the weather was nice. Then they had a gigantic sunny terrace all the way up to the bridge, and that was always packed full in lovely weather. With a bowl of taco chips and a few beers you could hold out there for a few hours in the early spring sun: happiness was quite normal in those days. We lived in Amsterdam with no balcony or garden, so we often fled to a terrace when the weather was good. When we wanted children we left the city and bought in Hoofddorp a small 1930s semi-detached house with "some overdue maintenance".

I actually have two left hands so I'm useless at DIY, but I can work out how I want it to be. No idea of who I got that from, because neither my mum nor dad had talent with interiors or design. Father-in-law Jan was a carpenter/contractor who was able to make anything from sight. Within a week the rear wall of our hovel was gone, you could look through the ceiling to the first floor, and you had to jump from beam to beam when you walked through the house. Some beams were rotten, but that was no problem according to Jan. I couldn't sleep for the worry: had I paid 185,000 guilders (it was about ten years before the euro) for a disaster? I didn't yet know that later you couldn't even buy a garage in Amsterdam for that (about €85,000). I thought it was a lot of money at the time.

Anyway, our first place under the sun was made beautiful, and there our son Sjors was born, now more than 26 years ago. We turned it into a real country-style house, such a jewel that it made it into several magazines. I was still in the early days of the transition from flower shop to interior brand, but that media attention drove my ambition higher and higher. I had to and would do more with interiors; there lay my real passion. Before Sjors was 1 year old, I had sketched my first furniture pieces, including a baby line complete with chest of drawers, wardrobe, and coat rack; all white furniture embellished with an elegant black text. It was a huge success, also for our wholesaler and we were copied everywhere, even in the US.

As now, the furniture was all handmade in small workshops in Indonesia, so sometimes things went wrong. It was trial and error in those days, which produced much stress, but thinking back, it also had its charm.

This typical country trend has lasted for many years and has made our brand big and well-known, far beyond our national borders. And now we have given the collections a new touch without losing sight of our DNA. We've prepared our collection for the next step. The new RM should not only be there for the country-style fan, but also appeal to a broader target group. As yet, that's worked really well, because we have grown like mad again over the last years.

A nice example of the new RM can be found in this spring magazine, on page 22, where we introduce the new Uptown Sofa, a multi-functional hip elements sofa that you can mix and match in various ways. As a counterpart, we made the Residenza Sofa that fits just as easily in a hip loft as a classic RM interior. See it on pages 2 and 3 and on the cover. With its filling of real duck down, you'll want to stay forever once you sit. Will this be our best sofa yet?

The Cabot Cove Coffee Table on page 46 is really classic RM with a new look; we call it "the new country". The Tribeca Bar Cabinet of recycled elm standing next to former Miss Universe Kim Kötter on page 28 is another example of the new RM style, timeless yet still classic in its design and material. But I'm only really seriously in love with the completely handmade Manacor Chair of recycled teak with rattan on page 48. This will be the new classic - so beautiful.

I write this column on 30 December in the sun in our garden on Ibiza where we've been celebrating New Year the last few years. As I said, I really don't like the cold and on Ibiza it can be gorgeous in winter at 16/17 degrees Celsius under a clear blue sky. Tomorrow, New Year's Eve is the deadline for my column because the magazine has to be at the printers in Paris on time at the end of January for Maison et Objet, the world's most important interior trade fair.

As I browse through the Spring Magazine, the photos just make me really happy. Gets you right in the mood for enjoying your summer-house - soonish. I am so very proud of the result. With this new collection, again we have made a few steps forward.

I wish you a splendid spring with lots of sun. Enjoy each other and your home!

MODERN LIVING

Modern Living is a popular style of interior: homely, comfortable, with a great deal of focus on cosiness. The tranquil colours and natural fabrics lend the interior a snug look & feel, where everyone feels quickly at home. Quite obviously a place meant for relaxation.

With modern living we see tranquillity coming through time and again in the designs. Serenity and ambience are created with organic, robust materials. Wood and rattan predominate, and tactile fabrics such as velvet, cotton and linen are hugely popular too. All these materials come together beautifully with a large rug or fabric sofa. Where the shiny chrome detailing lend this room an opulent look & feel, the green throughout the home injects a natural tranquillity.

Palmo Armchair velvet, slate grey (NOK 6.990),
Faubourg End Table nickel, diameter: 35 cm
(NOK 1.990), also available in diameter: 42 cm,
Nantucket Desk Lamp (NOK 1.790).

Seeking peace and tranquility in greenery is becoming more and more popular. Modern Living dovetails perfectly with this demand for bringing nature into the home in a distinctive way. Place different types of plants next to each other, hang them, or opt for a real eye-catcher with one large plant. Whatever you go for, greenery thrives! You can also make a statement in your interior by adding a stunning cabinet. Cabinets are great storage pieces, but also inject ambience into your interior. Take this fabulous herringbone Tribeca Bar Cabinet made of recycled wood. A classic cabinet with a contemporary twist. A genuine eye-catcher! Would you rather have an open display cabinet for all your knick-knacks? If so, the splendid metal Midtown Book Cabinet (in the upper left) is the one for you.

For full product information, see pages 79-81 of this magazine.

Mix & match

Modern Living goes hand in hand with relaxation. The Uptown Sofa has fabulous plump seats and is roomy in dimension. The back cushions are loose so they can be placed anywhere on the sofa. They don't shift, even when you lean heavily against them. Ideal for snuggling up together on to watch a film, or for chatting the night away. Put together your own sofa using the separate elements. Mixing it up lends your living room its own identity. All the elements are available in a stunning natural palette.

The Uptown Sofa melee, in blue, light brown and natural (NOK 8.990), also available in velvet, ice blue.

Put it on me!

Steel and glass are immensely popular in contemporary interiors. All these materials come together beautifully with a large rug and fabric sofa.

Wood is a great way to add extra warmth into your home. Place a wooden coffee table in between the elements to create a delightful, spacious effect. Using several coffee tables is the ideal way to showcase your loveliest accessories. Opt for a huge vase to hold stunning flowers or foliage, or for beautifully decorated lanterns. The small, circular occasional tables can also be easily moved around the space. From circular, wooden coffee tables to an oval, metal one with a stunning herringbone finish in recycled wood. An eye-catching coffee table completes your interior to perfection!

A flourishing career, mother, a centepede and especially an explosive fine, warm and cosy home for family and friends – that is what these power women have in common. We are happy to present their favourite setting for the new season to you!

Kristina Bozilovic

Kristina started her TV career at TMF, followed by MTV and RTL. She was no longer unknown in the media and exactly ten years ago she took over the magazine Talkies, in good time to share in celebrating its 25th anniversary this year. The magazine says itself that it is a bit headstrong, has its own course and has very stable partners from which beautiful collaborations have emerged. For years she has had a warm bond with Riviera Maison: "When you see and smell an RM store, you experience above all what the Home is ... feeling. Riviera Maison is a master in creating homeliness in your interior. There is such a great balance between classic and modern, but everything bears the same warmth and homeliness. I feel completely at home there."

POWERWOMEN

Fajah Lourens

After a role in the Costa series, GTST was her big breakthrough. In 2010, she interrupted her TV career in order to focus on other challenges. She created her own online sports platform, where nutrition, sport and health are central. Meanwhile her fourth book has been published, The Cellulite Guide. Fajah has her own bikini and lingerie line, she is a well-known DJ and her healthy bars will appear on the market soon. In short, an jack-of-all-trades with even more ideas. Nowadays, she finds her peace and quiet at home and enjoys the time she can spend with dear friends. "For me, a warm and cosy house is mainly a mix of styles, but together they form a whole. So I also have my own favourites here which I mix with other styles, but it remains a warm and cosy whole."

Kim Kötter

In 2002, Kim was crowned Miss Universe, after which her career took a completely different turn than she had in mind as a student. She took over the organisation of Miss Germany and later Miss Netherlands and has now been on TV for 10 years, the past 2 years as one of the regular faces on SBS Shownieuws. In addition, she has her own line within a children's clothing brand and, together with her husband Jaap (Reesema), she is very committed to charities. Together they have two beautiful sons and they are planning to move to their new dream home in the summer. "I can't wait to set it all up with my own ideas. Warm, cosy but with colour because we love some colour and life in the house. I'm like a child as I get so happy about beautiful things like this rugged cupboard, the Tribeca Bar Cabinet, made of reclaimed wood – really cool!"

Miljuscka Witzenhhausen

Miljuscka once started at TMF, but most people know her through her cooking skills and love for honest food, with her countless variations on the cheesecake really unprecedented! Since she has been a mother she has shared her passion on social media, which resulted in her receiving her own cooking programme at 24Kitchen 4 years ago. She also produces, writes cookbooks and has recently released her own crockery set. It is her personal challenge to inspire people to start cooking again. "It makes me so happy when someone tells me that a recipe has worked so well, but what I love most is cooking for my children and having a lovely meal with them at the table. Last year I visited Riviéra Maison again and it felt like coming home. But I was also very surprised by all the beautiful, new and especially modern stuff. Lots of steel and wood like this cool dining table, but I also like those Amsterdam City Dining Chairs! And I'm definitely going to use the paint in my new home – it really is great!"

BARTON'S CREEK'S

SUMMER CAMP — USA —

Enjoy this summer in the middle of nature, between forest and heath, overlooking a beautiful, glittering lake. Step into the jeep for an adventurous journey that leads you to the beautiful lake, grab a canoe from the trailer and sail towards the evening sun. After one last game of baseball, the whole gang gathers, sitting on felled tree trunks outside the tent to enjoy the glow of the crackling campfire.

Simple elegance

Luxury and elegance take central stage in an interior which is modern yet classic. Classic interiors with beautiful, romantic ornaments that really stand out give such an amazing atmosphere.

My cup of tea

For years, going for high tea has been the pinnacle of a sophisticated outing. But you can also enjoy that sophistication in your own home. The perfect way to catch up with your mum or your friends. Fill your table with delicious sandwiches, scones and treats. And, of course, a delicious cup of tea or coffee.

For product information, see pages 79-81 of this magazine.

Gin & Tonic

After all those cups of tea and sweet treats, your guests might enjoy something a bit different and savoury. Gin & tonic is very in right now, and there's a lot of variety on the market. Our favourite is a flowery, spicy gin paired with a pure tonic with no added flavours. Use fruit like raspberries, a slice of cucumber, and a twist of black pepper as a garnish. Delicious!

COLOUR CONFESSIONS

Colour is an essential part of the interior. It gives a space individuality and personality. Can it be something crazier? Then it's great to use an accent colour in your interior. An accent colour gives an interior a completely different look and also makes other colours dynamic and lively. So dare to play with bold colours as eye-catchers!

Enhance the colours in your interior with colour contrasts. Go for two complementary colours, which stand opposite each other in the colour circle. By using these contrasting colour combinations, both colours are enhanced. This creates a lively interior that radiates power.

SPICK AND SPAN!

Magazines lying around, extra cushions on the couch, children's toys all over the house. Recognisable? With these baskets, in no time at all, you can transform those messy rooms into clean rooms that are tip top in order! Besides the fact that wicker baskets are ideal for storing all kinds of things, they are also great to use as decoration. Below are four original ways to use these baskets as decoration in your interior.

As a plant pot

A simple way to dress up plants just a bit more fun; a basket! Put the plant and pot in a basket and voilà! It can be that simple. Small tip: place a rugged plant pot in the basket with a small bowl underneath it to catch the water.

Next to the sofa or fireplace

Put a basket with your favourite magazines or dresses next to the sofa. Handy and tidy, but it also looks great! Do you have a fireplace? Use the basket for the logs. This looks great by the crackling fire!

In an open cabinet

Place a number of baskets in an open cabinet next to or below each other. Choose different shapes and sizes for a playful twist!

3.

On the wall

A basket with handles? Then hang the basket on a coat rack or hook on the wall. It not only looks great, but you can also put some stuff in it.

Details make the difference

The days are getting longer again, time to dust and clean up the house again. What is better than wallpapering everything again – now is a good time for it.

I have developed a whole new wallpaper collection that will transform your home in no time. Beautiful wallpaper with a coarse rope or linen structure, or even one with a tile motif inspired by New York; gorgeous images on a base of tiles. I myself always use wallpaper with a busy print for rooms where you don't stay as long, a corridor or landing, so it doesn't get boring very quickly. In this magazine you can see the wallpaper in different places, pages 52 to 56.

The new wallpaper also looks fantastic for various projects that we will deliver this spring. When this number goes to press, the Lord Hugo project I am working on will just have started. Just outside Alkmaar we and a whole team have created a fantastic restaurant with different atmospheres, such as a real garden room with plants and green tiles, an industrial area with cool atmospheres and beautiful outdoor terraces.

The lovely hat is the logo for this overarching complex and this can be found in many places in the hotel. For example, we made beautiful hooks for your jacket in aluminium and small cushions in the shape of a hat – the details make the difference! Time for a ride to Noord-Holland!

With Nicolicious regards,

My favourite

Instead of a candle or flowers, I placed these lovely houses in the glass vases. These vases with the lovely ears are my all-time favourite. The glassware is blown by mouth, no vase is exactly the same, which makes this glassware so unique.

Industrial & velvet

Industrial and velvet is THE perfect match! Choose a large velvet eye catcher, like the Kendall Armchair in mineral blue, as the basis for your interior. Deep and warm tones such as dark blue or deep green give a rich look to this modern interior. For product information, see pages 79-81 of this magazine.

Time to add some spring!

The basis is set! Now's the time to give the interior a touch of spring with beautiful accessories. In this interior, the concrete floor is combined with a rug for some extra warmth: the soft colours of the rug >also make the space seem larger. Candles are the perfect mood creators, in spring too.
